

Speakers

In order of appearance

Seamus McKee

Seamus is a journalist and broadcaster with BBC Northern Ireland. He has presented a range of programmes on radio and television, and currently presents Evening Extra on BBC Radio Ulster.

Alderman Jim Dillon MBE JP

Jim is a Councillor for Downshire West, within Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council, and is chair of NILGA's Planning and Regeneration Working Group. Within the Council, Jim sits on the Development and Planning Committees.

Angus Kerr

Angus was appointed as Director of DOE's Planning Policy Division in January 2012. Angus previously led the team developing the new Local Development Plan system for Northern Ireland as part of the wider Planning Reform process.

Theresa Donaldson

Theresa has been Chief Executive of Lisburn and Castlereagh City Council since it was first formed. She was previously Chief Executive of Craigavon Borough Council, and Director of Policy at the NI Legal Services Commission.

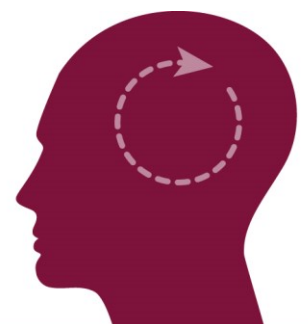

Andrew Haley

Andrew is a chartered Landscape Architect, Urban Designer and Regeneration Consultant. He is a member of the Design Council, and is currently Chair of the Ministerial Advisory Group for Architecture and the Built Environment.

Craig McClaren

Craig is Director, Scotland and Northern Ireland, at the Royal Town Planning Institute. He is also Non-Executive Director of Scotland's Towns Partnership, and a former Trustee of the Built Environment Forum Scotland.

Giulia Vallone

Giulia is Senior Executive Architect with Cork County Council. The Clonakilty 400 Urban Design Masterplan, which she designed, was voted Ireland's favourite new Building in the 2014 Irish Architecture Awards.

Lindsay Christian

Lindsay is senior planning officer at Newport City Council. The council, which comprises Wales' third largest city, is currently undergoing one of the most significant regeneration programmes in the UK.

